

REMONSTRANCE DANGER PASSES

Time for Filing Objections to Two School Projects in County Has Expired

LOCAL GYM WILL BE BUILT

Plans Practically Completed and Contract Will be Let to Enlarge Arlington School

With the time for filing remonstrances having passed, two school projects in Rush county can now go forward without interference, it was said today.

No remonstrances have been filed against the proposal to issue $40,000 in bonds to pay part of the expense of erecting a new school building in Rushville, nor against the proposal to issue $45,000 worth of bonds to construct an addition to the Posey township consolidated school building in Arlington.

The Posey township advisory board and Rushville city school trustees both published the first notice of their intentions to issue bonds on June 11, and in each notice it was set out that ten or more taxpayers might file a remonstrance against the expenditure with the county auditor before twenty-nine days from the first date of publication, had expired.

The twenty-nine days expired last Friday and no remonstrances had been filed. The Rushville school city trustees, however, in order to make their position secure, on the advice of bond attorneys, posted a notice similar to the legal notice published, calling attention to the proposed bond issue was safe until that time.

It will be recalled that the first plan in Rushville was to build a school building, to be used as a gymnasium and vocational education work, with loans from Rushville citizens without interest, and a bank loan. The plans to get the bank loan failed and as a last resort, it was decided to issue bonds to pay half the expense of erecting the building. This method, it was shown, would really be cheaper, and would give the school city of Rushville a building for half its actual cost. It is expected that proceeds from athletic contests and rentals on the building will pay off the non-interest bearing loan.

McGuire and Shook of Indianapolis have been engaged as architects and are drawing plans, which have been practically approved for the new building.

With danger of remonstrances having passed, those in charge of the project expect to advertise the sale of bonds and for the letting of the contract at the same time so that there will be no delay in getting the construction of the building started.

WILMA M. LOGAN FILES SUIT FOR A DIVORCE

Noble Township Woman Charges J. Carl Logan Threatened to do Her Bodily Harm

SUIT TO FORECLOSE LIEN

Wilma M. Logan has filed suit in the circuit court for divorce from J. Carl Logan, Noble township residents, in which she charges her husband with having a violent and explosive temper, and says that he became angry and swore at her and threatened to do her injury.

The couple was married July 3, 1916, and separated April 25, 1922, according to the complaint. She charges further that her husband stayed out late at nights, neglecting her and their two children, that he failed to properly provide and support them, and was otherwise cruel. She seeks a divorce and an allowance for the support of their children, and also custody of them.

Another complaint was filed today by Charles F. Taylor county clerk of this city against Lillian Janeison, the action being to foreclose on a lien. According to the suit, the defendant purchased an automobile tire and has failed to pay for it, and a lien was taken on the car. Judgment of $50 is sought.

PREPARE FOR PARK FESTIVAL

Members of Young Men's Circle Spend Day in Preparations

Members of the Young Men's Circle of the Main Street Christian church worked industriously all day at Memorial park to have everything in readiness for the opening of the park benefit festival this evening at 5:30 o'clock. A temporary handstand was made out of the swimming pool by draining out the water, with refreshment stands around it. The class is being assisted by the Loyal Daughters class of the church.

The net proceeds will be turned over to the park committee of the city council to be used in the park for whatever purpose the committee sees fit. A small sum will be used by the class to pay a deficit on the boulevard which was pledged.

The class has given park benefit festivals in the past with great success.

MILK LAW IS STATE WIDE IN ITS SCOPE

Persons Offering Milk For Sale For Household Use Governed by Indiana Statute

TUBERCULIN TEST REQUIRED

Only Alternative Permitted is Pasteurizing Before Sale—Stiff Penalties Provided

Attention was called to the fact today that milk from cows which have not been tuberculin tested, was being sold in Rushville.

This is not only in violation of a city ordinance, but also violates a state law passed by the last legislature and approved March 11 of this year, providing that all milk offered or exposed for sale in Indiana shall be thoroughly pasteurized or shall be from tuberculin tested cows.

The city ordinance compelling dairymen to have their cows tested has been in effect more than a year, and the first year was strictly enforced, it is said, but this year, if all reports be true, not all dairymen have complied with the terms of the ordinance, although a big majority of them have.

The enactment of the state law makes it more imperative that milk dealers comply, because the authority to enforce it is placed in the hands of the state board of health.

Furthermore, the state law means that not alone milk dealers in Rushville, but every person in Rush county who sells milk for household use, shall comply with the law.

There was also a law passed by the last legislature enabling the state veterinarian to control and extirpate bovine tuberculosis through the establishment of accredited tuberculosis-free areas. The law provides that when it shall appear that seventy-five per cent of the cattle in any county have been tuberculin tested under the supervision of the state and federal government, it shall then become mandatory upon the owners of the remaining twenty-five per cent of the cattle in such county to submit their cattle to a tuberculin test under such supervision.

The question of tuberculin testing under this law has been presented to a number of the township farm bureaus and has been most favorably received. Many farmers have already complied with the law.

Stiff penalties for selling or offering for sale milk that has not been pasteurized or milk from cows that have not been tuberculin tested, are provided in the law regulating the sale of milk.

"Any person, firm, association or corporation," the penalties class of the law says, "violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, every violation constituting a separate offense, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50) or more than two hundred dollars ($200) or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days or more than six months or by both, such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

ANOTHER RECRUIT

POLICE NOTIFIED TO BE ON LOOKOUT FOR FUGITIVE

Earl Spencer, Used as Witness Against Morristown Boy, Escapes At Shelbyville

HAD BEEN IN PENAL FARM

Earl Spencer of Franklin, recently convicted in that city for conspiracy together with several other young men, is a fugitive from justice, following his escape Monday morning about eleven o'clock from the Shelby county jail.

Police Chief Blackburn of this city received a call in the afternoon to be on the lookout for the young man, but no trace of him was found in this vicinity.

He had been in the reformatory at Pendleton for two weeks, beginning his sentence, and was returned to Shelbyville as a witness in the trial against Wayne Morrison of Morristown, charged with robbing a hardware store. Seven or eight young men are implicated in several crimes, six of them having been sentenced. Spencer testified in court Monday morning against Morrison, and he escaped from the jail by hiding in a corridor after being returned from the court room.

The women members of the sheriff's family were doing the family washing in the corridor, and supposed that Spencer was in his cell at the time. When the women left the room, he walked out, and has not been located. Several other prisoners in jail were confined in cells, and could not escape.

FRANK MAIBAUGH SUCCEUMS

Former Rushville Pool Room Owner Dies at Home in Liberty

They also were successful managers of a baseball team for several seasons. When the Maibaugh and Walker partnership was dissolved, he returned to Liberty, but Mr. Walker has maintained his residence here.

Death was caused from cancer. He is survived by the widow and three children, Mrs. Helen Fosdick, Miss Hilda Maibaugh and Maurice Maibaugh.

ANNUAL CONVENTION REPORT GIVEN CLUB

Rotarians Also Enjoy Solos by Miss Irene Reardon and Joe Seibold of Bluffton

READINGS BY MISS COMPTON

Reports from the annual convention of Rotary International at Cleveland, O., and vocal solos and readings featured the weekly meeting of the Rotary club today noon at the Odd Fellows Temple.

Miss Irene Reardon, who will have the leading part in "Princess Bonnie," home talent production to be given under the auspices of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, sang a number from the score of the musical comedy and responded with another selection when she was given hearty applause.

Miss Lavienna Compton read a number in colored dialect and also told a story involving two members of the club, which were received with outbursts of applause.

Joe Seibold of Bluffton was introduced as a guest by George Witte and received a big ovation when he sang two solos, the last one an Irish dialect number. Mr. Seibold has come to take charge as director of "Princess Bonnie."

Donald D. Ball, secretary of the club, reported on the Cleveland convention, describing some of the inspiration gathered from attending a convention at which representatives from 24 countries were present.

Members who have been away for several meetings—Gunn Haydon, Lee Endres and Roy Waggener—were called on for brief remarks. J. T. Skell, Jr., also described his experiences in an automobile accident last Sunday.

KNIGHTSTOWN OIL WELL PROMISES TO BE GOOD ONE

Will Produce Ten Barrels of Oil Daily, It is Estimated—Others Will be Drilled

CONTRACTORS COMING IN

Knights town has visions of an oil boom following the shooting of a well there last week, which will produce ten barrels of oil daily. It is predicted by experienced men that a pump installed on the well will bring it up to this estimated production.

The word has spread of the well being brought in and oil contractors from Kentucky, Texas and Oklahoma fields are reported on the way to Knights town to develop the field. Three rigs will be working north and south of the National road within thirty days, the Knights town Banner says, and other contractors with rigs will be on the job.

Pritchard and Estell, who drilled the well shot last week, on the banks of Blue river, will start another well in Homedale park, at Knights town, within a month, the Knights town Banner says.

This well was drilled in last winter to a depth of 906 feet, the drilling being stopped on December 7th. At that time Herbert Estell, who was instrumental in getting the well started on the lease, became ill and it was necessary for him to get away from this climate. He went to Texas and remained all winter, returning to Knights town recently. Ralph Rhodes, who is now in Kentucky oil field, drilled the well. He sold his interests in the well and lease to Samuel Pritchard.

GASOLINE UP CENT ON GALLON

Increased Crude Oil Prices Responsible, Standard Oil Says

Chicago, July 14—Gasoline prices today went up one cent a gallon at Standard Oil of Indiana stations in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas and North and South Dakota. Tank wagon prices also moved up one cent to 19 cents a gallon.

In Illinois the price to the consumer now is 21 cents a gallon. In some of the other states of the group prices are from one to two cents higher.

Increased crude oil prices caused the increase to the consumer, the Standard Oil Company said.

FAILS TO "DOGE" AN ENGINE

Loren Hunt Runs Into Locomotive With Dodge Coach

Contrary to the usual method employed in wrecking automobiles at railroad crossings, instead of hitting the car, a switching freight engine on the C. I. & W. railroad was "hit" this morning about 9:30 o'clock by a Dodge Coach, belonging to S. B. Groom, bookkeeper at Innis, Pearce Furniture factory, and driven by S. L. Hunt, Jr., son of Sheriff Hunt.

Hunt, who is also an employee in the office of the factory, was driving south in Spencer street, from the factory, and according to his version he did not see the engine, which was backing at a slow rate of speed, until he was too near to it and then his car failed to "dodge" hitting the engine almost broadside. The car was pushed to one side, breaking the front axle and bending the left front fender slightly, Hunt was unhurt.

BANDIT HUNT IS WITHOUT RESULTS

Vigilance Committee of Henry County Bankers Association Spends Night in Search

STRAUGHN BANK ROBBED

Bandits Take Advantage of Cashier's Absence to Hold Up Two Women Employees

Newcastle, Ind., July 14—A vigilance committee of the Henry County Bankers' association returned empty handed early today after an all night hunt for two bandits who robbed the Peoples bank at Straughn of $850 late yesterday.

A squad of deputy sheriffs and posses of citizens aided in the search but failed to pick up the trail of the bandits.

Entering the Straughn bank a short time before the closing hour Monday afternoon, the two bandits compelled Mrs. Lloyd Benjamin, assistant cashier, and Mrs. Lloyd Gilbert, bookkeeper, to lie on the floor. The two women were securely tied and one of the bandits stood guard over them with a drawn revolver while his companion rifled the cashier's cage of $850.

In their haste the bandits overlooked $800 in currency and cash in the safe.

R. E. Bradway, cashier, had left the bank a few minutes before the robbers entered. Mrs. Benjamin said she was standing at the cashier's window when the men entered.

One of them presented a check to be cashed. When she turned after getting the money, she found a revolver thrust in her face.

Screams of the two women attracted passersby on the street after the robbers had fled and the pursuit was taken up immediately.

It was believed the men fled toward the Ohio state line.

LIQUOR CONSPIRACY IS SEEN

Federal Judge Orders Probe of Charge Against Illinois Director

Chicago, Ill., July 14—Federal Judge A. Cliffe today ordered investigation of charges of "a liquor conspiracy," involving Major Percy Owen, state prohibition director of Illinois.

The charges came during the hearing of a "bootleg" case against Bernard Coyle, manager of the Chateau Bath and Sanitarium of Chicago. Patrick Roche, of the special intelligence unit of the internal revenue department produced an affidavit from a former employee of the sanitarium declaring he saw a box of whiskey loaded into Owens car while he was sitting in the automobile.

ELECTRICIAN KILLED

Mishawaka, Ind., July 14—Harvey Southworth, 42, a city electrician, was killed today when with one hand on a high tension wire, he backed into another high voltage wire. He was working with telephone linemen on changes being made on poles owned jointly by the city and the Indiana Bell Telephone Company.

DR. SAM W. SMALL IS A HEADLINER

Man of Many Attainments Will be Chautauqua Lecturer Here Wednesday August 12

NOTED SOUTHERN EVANGELIST

Served as Secretary to President Andrew Johnson, and Held Many Important Positions

Dr. Sam W. Small, the famous Southern Evangelist, editor and lecturer, who is to appear at the Rush County Chautauqua on Wednesday afternoon, August 12 is a man of exceptional attainments.

He was born in Knoxville, Tennessee, in the city founded by his family forbears; graduated with high honors from Emory and Henry College in Virginia, and after admission to the bar in Tennessee became private secretary to ex-President Andrew Johnson and followed that statesman's political fortunes to the United States Senate.

He holds the literary degree of A. B. and A. M. from his Alma Mater; Ph. D. from Taylor University and D. D. from the Ohio Northern University. He is a trained journalist, many years editor of leading Southern papers, principally with the noted "Atlanta Constitution," and founder of the Norfolk "Virginian Pilot" and Oklahoma City "Oklahoman." He is author of several books.

By appointment of President Hayes he served as secretary of the American Commission in Paris in 1898 and as a delegate from this country to the International Literary Congress of that year. He has served in many notable national conventions of political, commercial and reformatory character.

While in the United States Army in Cuba in 1899 he was Military Supervisor of Public Instruction, engaging in the reorganization of the public schools of the Island.

In 1885 Mr. Small, then a prominent editor and public official in Atlanta, was converted through the preaching of Rev. Sam Jones, the great Georgia evangelist and joined services in all the greater cities of the United States and Canada. Those were among the most famous and successful religious meetings ever held in this or any other country.

"America, the Moses Nation of the Age" is a real platform masterpiece and fortunate will be those who avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing one of the great speakers of the day.

MERCURY DROPS TO LOW POINT FOR THE MONTH

Temperature Goes From One Extreme to The Other, Registering 53 During Night

CLIMBS BACK SLOWLY TODAY

Regardless of weather predictions for the continued hot wave being unbroken the weather bureau permitted the mercury to slip several notches without any warning and Monday night hung up a new record for July when the mercury went down the tube, reaching 53 degrees for the low level.

It was the coolest night in weeks, according to Elwood Kirkwood, as it had remained on an average for the past two weeks, between 65 and 70 degrees during the nights. The 53 degrees reached last night, is an exceptionally low temperature for July, he stated today.

Today the mercury had not recovered from the slump took during the night, and at noon had managed to climb up only to 80 degrees, which is still ten to 15 degrees lower than it has been at noon for several weeks.

The weather bureau in their prediction promises unsettled weather tonight and Wednesday, with probably thundershowers, and with warmer weather in the southeast portion tonight.

The Reward of Achievement

Mr. George E. Roberts, Vice President of the National City bank, in Nation's Business for April, 1925, might have been writing pointedly of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) when he said:

"The clamor for official regulation of business arises primarily because men do not understand economic forces. There are few lines of business in which these forces will not protect the public. In normal times, it seldom happens that unusual profits are made, but that competition quickly arises and corrects the situation. Our economic progress has been accomplished under an individualistic system. The theory of this system is that everyone shall have for his own, as nearly as may be, that which results from his own efforts. This inspires him to labor, to produce, and to accumulate, by rendering those services to the community which the community is willing to pay for. He is inspired to labor by an ambition to achieve, to win distinction and to render service."

"The argument for widespread government ownership and regulation of the oil industry is based upon the theory that the wealth employed in this industry benefits nobody but the owners. This is like claiming that the people who benefit most from the development of the steam engine are owners of steam engines; that the people who gain most from the railroad, are those having investments in the railroad. The fallacy of this theory is apparent."

The people who benefit most by the money invested in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are those who consume its products.

Every citizen is benefited by every investment of capital which increases the supply or lowers the cost of any commodity.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) serves society by increasing the supply and lowering the price of petroleum products.

In recent years this Company has anticipated progress by being among the first to introduce "employee ownership of stock in the Company."

Today, more than 15,000 employees are stockholders.

To enable its employees to participate to the greatest extent possible, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) adds 50c to every $1.00 that an employee invests in stock in the Company.

The result of this far-sighted policy has been to create a better feeling among the employees and to promote a spirit of enthusiasm.

Today, every employee-stockholder takes great pride in the fact that he is a partner in the business and that as he shares in the profits so must he assume his share of the responsibility.

It is such spirit and consequent interest in the daily task that develops the individual man and fits the office boy for the clerkship; the clerk for the executive position, and the executive for the Board of Directors.

Thus does the individual in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) organization of 27,000 reap reward according to his achievements. Thirty million people of the Middle West get all that the Standard Oil Company, (Indiana)—as an organization and as a group of individuals—is able to render in a superior, unflinching service.

BIBLE THOUGHT
—FOR TODAY—
Bible thoughts should be a part of every day's life.

Think of the Harvest—
Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Galatians 6: 7.

Prayer:—Dear Lord, we thank Thee for this truth. May we sow seed that assures us a good harvest.

The Spare Tire

An order has gone out from the United States postoffice department requiring every rural mail carrier to have his automobile equipped with a spare tire.

Thus a thing of comparative insignificance has been raised to a place of importance in the world. It has been given a rank which entitles it to be classed as an essential.

The question may be raised as to whether the spare tire was ever essential. Isn't anything that does the duty of a spare tire—always ready to step into the lurch in an emergency—of same value to humanity?

We are inclined to look upon some people as spare tires. They are substitutes for those who are doing the real work of the world, never seeming to have a place in the everyday affairs of life.

But haven't they a place that entitles them to some consideration? Is it fair to regard the spare tire folks as of no value to society?

The spare tire often saves the day. It takes the doctor on his mission of mercy when the tire in which he placed his faith was a failure. It makes it possible for men to be prompt. It supplies the necessary service needed for the milk man to be on time. It prevents the groceryman from being late. It steps into the lurch when called upon and keeps the transportation wheels running. And now it is going to make it possible for the mail man to be on time.

Perhaps we should give the spare tire more credit for the service it performs. We could scarcely get along without it. Neither could we worry along without the spare tire people. They are needed just as much as the first line people. Let's give them more consideration in the future.

Mrs. Proctor Reports Great Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharpsburg, Pa.—"I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women. I have taken four bottles of it and I feel 100 per cent better. I was dizzy and weak with no appetite, no ambition and with a tired feeling all the time. I had aches and pains all over my body and had the headache a good deal. I saw your advertisement in the 'Pittsburgh Press' and thought it might help me. I have been greatly benefited by its use and highly recommend it for all ailments of women."

Mrs. H. Proctor, Box 1, East Liberty Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Such letters prove the great merit of the Vegetable Compound. These women know by experience the benefit they have received. Their letters show a sincere desire to help other women suffering from like ailments. Let these experiences help you—now.

In a recent canvass of women purchasers, 98 out of every 100 report beneficial results by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Drinking Among Children

There has been much loose talk about drinking among young people. It has been a favorite theme among those who have never reconciled themselves to the passing of the saloon.

The propagandists who want the return of what they choose to call the "good old days" of licensed liquor never fail to emphasize the case of a boy or girl drinking. And some good-intentioned people are misled into the false conclusion that drinking is more prevalent among young people than it was before the advent of the eighteenth amendment and Mr. Volstead's law.

The board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church set about to determine whether school children were drinking strong liquor as much as they did before prohibition.

The officers of the board selected Massachusetts for the investigation and sent questionnaires to one hundred high school principals. Only one principal reported an increase in drinking among children. The others said conditions were better than in 1918, not worse.

Since this is an actual test, it will have to be accepted as fact until evidence more conclusive to the contrary is offered. There is very little difference between the children of Massachusetts and those of any other state.

Where young people do drink, it is principally through home use or example, or the influence of others; the board found in its survey. This is a significant fact for mature men and women to ponder.

The temptation to drink has been removed as far as possible from paths of young people. If they are tempted, as a general rule, some older person is responsible.

Cut The Weeds

Mayor Thomas has issued a warning regarding weed cutting. It should be heeded because weeds detract from the beauty of the city.

Weeds have been recognized as a menace for many years. An ordinance providing they shall be cut is evidence enough of this fact.

Property owners are given notice, and if they do not comply, the city cuts weeds and charges up the expense against the property.

Someone has said that immortality has been beaten into weeds because they have been fought by man for centuries. Due to their battle for existence, they have built up a great resistance.

But this should not deter anyone from cutting the unsightly weeds on their premises. Although weeds may be immortal, they can be cut down with a sharp scythe or sickle. They will grow up again, it is true, but you can let the frost get them next time.

Slow Down For Horses

Manilla, Ind., July 11, 1925
Rushville Republican:

For a regular subscriber will you print the following as I think it will be of benefit to many of our careless auto drivers. Now what I want to say is this:

Fifty percent of the drivers go too fast when they meet a horse-drawn rig and the horse scares at them and soon get afraid of them and are not safe. No one is in so great a hurry but what they could slow down. We do not ask them to stop but run slow when meeting a horse.

My physical condition is such that my physician will not let me drive a car and I have had to dispose of two horses in the last year on account of fast drivers. How many horses would meet a team and farm wagon going thirty-five or forty miles per hour without shying at same. I met the driver of the Rush County milling-truck east of Manilla last fall and he was man enough to slow down. My horse ran back across the road and he stopped his truck or he would have run over me.

I met an oil truck from Knightstown generally running twenty-five or thirty miles, with open muffler that does not care if there is a horse.

The Indiana Senatorship
(Goshen Daily News-Times)

From now until the November election next year the question of senatorial succession will be an important topic for discussion among the citizens of Indiana.

The Hon. James E. Watson's term as United States senator will expire on March 4, 1927, and already there is the usual foreboding activity on the part of politically inclined individuals to refill this important place in the halls of national legislation.

Senator Watson is a candidate to succeed himself and at this writing no one has entered the field against him.

In view of present day political conditions, this is well.

The public appears to be pretty generally satisfied with the record of efficiency and economy being established by the Coolidge administration and its chief aim is to maintain national congress that will defend rather than seek to obstruct the administration program.

To Senator's credit it must be said that there is a no more faithful and able supporter of the president in the upper house of congress. In the main, Coolidge's program is Watson's program and the senator's record in this respect is worthy of the highest commendation.

To discuss Senator Watson's standing as a statesman and ability as a legislator in this connection would be merely a repetition of what every mature person in Indiana already knows, and this also holds true in a major degree in the nation at large.

The leadership Senator Watson has attained in the halls of congress is a valuable asset to his home state. It has provided Indiana with a voice in national affairs of government that no successor to Senator Watson no matter how fitted for the position he or she might be, could hope to maintain. Long years of service have elevated Senator Watson to his present high place in the councils of government and it now remains for the voter of Indiana to say whether they care to sacrifice the advantage that the senator's achievements have brought to the commonwealth.

The News-Time is prompted to take this attitude in the senatorial matter purely on the grounds of expediency and common sense, having chiefly in mind the welfare of the state and nation under the guiding hand of President Coolidge.

In the past we have taken occasion to disagree with Senator Watson in matters pertaining to party organization and policy, but that is of no consequence in the present instance. The past in not worthy of consideration and the future is amply capable of taking care of itself.

From our viewpoint, the prime necessity in national affairs is to afford President Coolidge the largest measure of support in his effort to restore business stability and relieve the people of the burden of taxation imposed by war. Senator Watson amply fulfills the demand in this respect, therefore to us duty of good citizenship is plainly apparent.

in the road or not. Now if he finds his name with the prosecutor he can blame no one but himself as his car and number are known. I think I pay more road-tax than anyone of seventy-five percent of the drivers of autos on the roads and should have some rights on same.

Last Sunday afternoon, July 5, I counted in just two hours the machines east of Manilla on the road and there was 109 autos and not one horse-drawn rig, so you see they would not have to slow down very often.

I think the automobile one of the greatest inventions we have if used right, but there are too many that do not care for the other party just so they get by. Please think and slow down when you meet a horse. Let us hear from other drivers of horses on the public roads. Mr. Editor if you think this of any benefit to your readers, print it, if not throw it into the waste basket.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorder. S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils! "You ride on a cushion of air."

"Ruts and bumps are smoothed out."

"On uneven roads where ordinary tires bounce, these flexible low-air pressure tires roll over the bumps, permitting better average speed."

"Save repairs."

Low-Air Pressure is the Answer

These were the things that car owners wanted. The things that made them demand balloon tires.

Read them and then ask yourself how you can get them except in a tire that can be run at low enough air pressure to provide a soft air cushion between the car and the road.

Some car owners have been sold the balloon principle and then handed the name only.

Just a big, round, fat tire with the name "Balloon" on it will not necessarily give low-air pressure riding comfort.

The original ideal of the industry was a flexible side wall, low-pressure tire.

Yet today some "balloon" tires must be run at too high pressure for ideal cushioning, as they wear out too fast when they are run soft.

It is important to you as a car owner to remember this fact.

The United States Royal Balloon is spoken of as the "Balloon Tire Principle at its Best," because it can be run at low-air pressure without injury.

It is built of Latex-treated Web Cord which provides the necessary strength and flexibility.

It has the U.S. Low-Pressure Tread which wears slowly and evenly and eliminates early, uneven and unsightly wear.

Specify U.S. Royal Balloon Cords and be sure of true low-pressure cushioning.

FANNING WITH ARRELY

Babe May be Through

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 14—"Licked and broke" is anything but a fitting last line for the baseball record of the one and only Babe Ruth, but it may have to be written.

Ball players, of course, have to reach the end of their active playing career some day, but there are more auspicious retirements than the one the Babe is facing.

The active life of a major league ball player, because of its physical demands, makes an old man of one who in civilian pursuits would be just reaching his prime. There are some notable exceptions—Babe Adams, Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker, but the list of those who are old men of the diamond at thirty is too long to mention.

For two reasons Babe Ruth never could have gone as long as Adams, Cobb or Speaker. He wasn't structurally fitted to stand up under the strain and he didn't take care of himself.

It is a proved fact of baseball that a player can last no longer than his legs and the Babe never had the lower foundation to bear up a torso that grew beyond its natural weight by easy living.

When the Babe was in his prime and knocking them over the fences in all the American League lots, the late Sam Crane, who knew baseball and baseball players, as no other critic knew them, said:

"That fellow won't go long. His legs are too skinny."

Ruth always was brittle for a big, strong specimen. He always had a finger bound, an ankle taped or a stomach laden with bicarbonate of soda, but he had a vanity of size that kept him going because he wanted to be as hardy and as tough as he looked.

He was not only proud of himself but he loved baseball. It was the only game he knew and the only thing he cared about. He liked himself because he wouldn't stop.

It is unfortunate that a national figure of the Ruth type must reach the end of a career that has been so spectacular and it is terrible that he has to get there broke.

There are many morals to hold up for youngsters in the career of an idol who came out of an orphanage and made of himself the greatest card and the biggest money maker that baseball ever has known.

There is also a more important lesson that can be taught with the Babe as an example. It has been taught for years before any one knew anything about Babe Ruth, but it can be revived with renewed vigor when there is so prominent an example as the Babe. It is—"Save your money!"

For more than three years the Babe's annual income must have been in excess of $100,000 and it

KEEPING ONE EYE ON THE SCORE BOARD

Yesterday's Hero—Batting as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning, Carlyle hit a homer with one on and gave the Red Sox a 12-to-11 victory over the Indians.

George Sialer hit a homer in the ninth inning and enabled the Browns to beat the Senators 5 to 4. Rice and Hargrave also hit for the circuit.

Terry's homer in the seventh inning with Kelly on gave the Giants a 3 to 1 victory over the Cubs. Greenfield, Giant youngster, allowed the Cubs four hits.

Two singles and a double in the tenth inning gave the Phillies a 5 to 2 victory over the Cards. Hornsby hit his 25th homer.

Three runs scored on a rally in the ninth inning enabled the Pirates to beat the Robins 4 to 2.

Two hits and three passes in the seventh inning gave the Reds two runs and a 4 to 1 victory over the Braves.

Hitting Hoyt freely the White Sox had no trouble in beating the Yankees 8 to 4.

Pitching his first game for the Athletics, Jack Quinn, Boston cast off, beat the Tigers, 4 to 1.

wasn't a hard life he led. In fact it may have been too easy. He wasn't accustomed to money in his youth and when it came to him in a shower he didn't know what to do with it.

He threw away a fortune that might have kept him in his declining days at the sucker game of trying to beat the races and he lived at a pace that made him satisfied when he had enough money to meet the rent man.

Ty Cobb, who has been in the big money for years, is reputed to be worth $500,000. He made big money and he invested it wisely. Tris Speaker is worth a lot of money and Rogers Hornsby is prosperous, but the Babe isn't and he never would have been because he wasn't that type.

Col. Jack Ruppert, owner of the Yankees and a sort of father to the Babe, tried to make him save his money but the law held that Babe was of age and it is against the rules to use a gun on a man to make him give up his money.

When the Babe is through as a player he will have to go to work and the question arises—what will he do?

He is a cigar maker by trade, but by the wildest process of imagination you simply cannot see the Babe spending his days behind a counter wrapping leaves into cheroots.

The average ball player, who has no other means of making a good living, can hope to become a manager when he is no longer worth a big league salary on the playing field. But the Babe is not exactly fitted to become a manager. He knows baseball and its ins and outs, but he hasn't the disposition to handle a club. If he couldn't handle himself it is hardly logical that he could handle a whole team of men who want to be shown as well as told what to do and how to live.

AMUSEMENTS

Pola Negri Is Starring

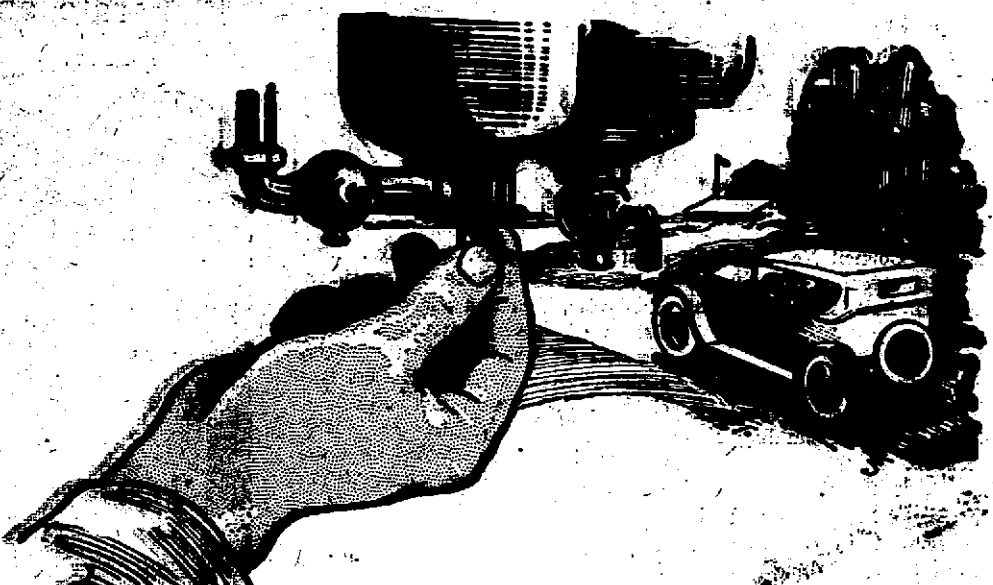

"Lily of the Dust," the Paramount picture which opened a two days' run at the Princess Theatre yesterday, is a production bound to satisfy the most finicky picture fan. Pola Negri is the star. Every time we come to the conclusion that she has just about reached the heights of characterization she comes along in a new picture to surprise us with something new.

"Lily of the Dust," was adapted by Paul Bern from a novel by Hermann Sudermann and the play by Edward Sheldon. Pola has the role of Lily, a poor but very beautiful girl; whose fascination for men is a curse to her. In love with one man, she is forced by circumstances to marry another, only to learn that marriage without love is most unhappy. Men are attracted to her, and she finds herself being pushed along easiest way that eventually leads to destruction. Fate takes pity upon her, and in the end she finds happiness.

As in her previous starring vehicle "Men" Buchowetzki gives ample proof of the fact that he can get the elemental fire out of Pola for which she is famous. Noah Beery, Ben Lyon, Raymond Griffith are all deserving of high praise for their respective portrayals. The rest of the supporting cast is more than acceptable.

"Disraeli" At Castle

George Arliss in "Disraeli" demonstrates the supreme fitness of setting in motion pictures. We have grown so used to seeing pictures that Mr. Arliss makes us wish we could see him much more often in pictures. At the Castle Theatre, today the presentation of the widely heralded screen version of Mr. Arliss' greatest stage characterization of excellent players splendidly directed, and with a story that holds the attention until the last moment. And Mr. Arliss' acting in the title role demands more praise than space permits.

"Disraeli" is not an historical play. The author, Louis N. Parker, merely gave us a story to illustrate the life and times of the great English statesman, and of the prejudice against which Disraeli was obliged to fight in order to reach the summit of his ambition—the Premiership. Mr. Parker has sketched a plot around the efforts of the Premier to buy the Suez Canal as a means whereby England might defend India. The love interest in dual for Disraeli's great affection for his wife forms a phase of the romance in "Disraeli," while Clarissa and Charles demonstrates their love in a series of scenes that compare favorably with the most charming we have seen on the screen.

just how soiled and mussy your clothing gets this hot weather. It is so easy to just drift along and not pay any special attention to your garments when it is so hot, but people don't cease to note and comment on others' appearance just because it's hot.

Right now is when you should really look your best because it is the true mark of a fastidious dresser if one can be immaculate under such conditions.

TO DETERMINE TYPE OF RADIO PROGRAMS FARMERS LIKE BEST

During July and August the National Farm Radio Council will conduct a survey of farm homes to determine the type of radio programs desired by farm radio listeners. Other radio surveys have been made by various organizations but they have been concerned with the number and nature of receiving sets rather than with program material. The National Farm Radio Council, in its work of making available better and more useful radio programs designed particularly to interest farmers, intends that this survey shall give a true picture of what is actually wanted over radio on the farm. Questionnaires will be placed in the hands of 850,000 farmers; as far as possible those who own radios and those who have signified their intention of owning a set.

A group of thirty farm magazines will co-operate in this survey.

Each county agent will give the opinions of the members of the county Farm Bureaus, in which organizations radio is playing an increasing part, especially in group meetings and special gatherings, by specific programs.

Vocational teachers of agriculture will be supplied with these questionnaires to be passed out to their agricultural students. From the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Clubs will come another reaction toward radio programs. The National Farm Radio Council look to this source for much valuable information because the younger people in the farm homes are looking to radio with an increased appreciation.

The following questions will be asked and the information received will be used by the National Farm

Radio Council in its work of supplying some thirty-five stations with agricultural programs: What is your favorite station? Why? Which part of radio programs appeal most to you; orchestra, singing, educational farm talks, market reports, weather forecasts, etc.? Is your radio useful as well as entertaining? What is the most useful thing you get over radio? Have radio market reports ever saved you money? How did it happen? At what time of day does your family listen regularly over your radio? When is the most convenient time for market reports? Do you take market reports down as they are read? Do you listen before noon, at noon, at 6:00, 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, 8:00, 8:30 P. M.? Would you like educational talks by experts on poultry, dairy, livestock and other branches of agriculture? Would you like to hear current farm news talks about meetings of farm organizations, agricultural developments, and trend, etc.? Would you like to hear a series of talks on marketing of agricultural products by nationally prominent marketing men? Do you listen to baseball, football and basketball games? Do you listen to church services on Sunday. Please list other features dealing with agriculture that you would like to hear.
